DIRECTORSHIP
INSTITUTE OF EARTH SCIENCES
ACADEMIA SINICA
TAIPEI, TAIWAN

The Institute of Earth Sciences (IES), a center of excellence in Earth Science research at the Academia Sinica in Taiwan, is searching for an outstanding earth scientist as its next Director. With an annual operating and research budget of over eight million US dollars, the IES carries out research in areas fundamental to the Earth and its environment. Existing research fields include (but not limited to) the following areas: seismology, tectonophysics, neotectonics, mineral physics, geochemistry and cosmochemistry. The Institute currently has 31 research fellows and a substantial supporting staff (administrative and technical personnel), postdoctoral fellows and research assistants, totaling about 140. Additional resources will become available for the new Director to launch major new initiatives in Earth Science.

We invite applications, nominations and expressions of interest in the directorship. The initial appointment, expected to begin on August 1, 2010, is for a term of three years and is renewable for another term. The salary depends on qualification and is commensurate with those at leading institutions in the United States. The position is open to all distinguished individuals without regard to ethnic or national origin, but should have a working knowledge of Chinese.

Interested applicants should submit their curriculum vitae, list of publications, a vision statement, and the names and addresses of at least three references by October 31, 2009 to the Executive Secretary of the Director Search Committee:

Professor Chung-Ho Wang,

Institute of Earth Sciences, Academia Sinica,

P. O. Box 1-55, Nankang, Taipei, Taiwan 11529, R.O.C.
